SupraMaxx™ for Him

TRACE MINERALS TO SUPPORT BUILDING STRENGTH AND LONGEVITY

There are many types of men in the world, all the way from strong, virile, ready-for-action kind of guys, to the quiet, laid back, and easy going. Yet, when it comes to aging, most men share a similar fate: unplanned physical challenges. Modern, overly processed diets and poor life-styles, over time, take a heavy toll on longevity and the quality of life.

SISEL International is dedicated to helping men build the dynamic vitality that they desire. Our elite group of researchers have formulated the most effective trace mineral supplement available for men— SISEL's SupraMaxx™ for Him™.

Trace minerals are vital to a man's health because they are used by the body to create energy. In today's fast-paced society men need energy for work and play. Yet, they tend to eat fast foods that are high in calories and low in nutrition. Good nutrition, the real source of energy, is replaced by popular energy drinks that provide temporary stimulation, followed by a drop in blood sugar, causing doiness and fatigue.

Another reason men need to supplement with trace minerals is because they are the building blocks of wellness and an integral part of building the body. Minerals build the bones, muscles, ligaments, skin—the structure of the body. Deficient in modern, overly processed diets, trace minerals must be obtained through supplements. SupraMaxx for Him supplies an abundant source of minerals in a balanced blend, much like they appear in nature.

SupraMaxx for Him contains ionic trace minerals. Researchers have determined that ionic minerals are a superior source. Ionic minerals are electrically charged in a liquid form that allows the body to recognize and utilize them most efficiently.¹

Because men have specific nutritional needs, SupraMaxx for Him includes a remarkable herb from South America called, maca. This plant is reported to contain essential minerals, fatty acids and polysaccharides. Maca is traditionally believed to enhance strength, endurance and virility.

No matter what age you are, it is never too late to make a minor adjustment that will offer major rewards. Fueling your body with SupraMaxx for Him helps you to maintain vibrant health and longevity. SupraMaxx for Him is an innovative supplement that supports the body's remarkable ability to build energy and strength.
